Wingspan's DocWay Suite Supports Documentum 6.5

BLUE BELL, PA – August 15, 2008 – Wingspan Technology, Inc., the leading provider of Documentum to SharePoint integration tools, announced today that its entire DocWay product line supports EMC's Documentum 6.5.

DocWay 6 for SharePoint

DocWay provides a complete, high performance, 100% AJAX user interface to your Documentum repositories from within your SharePoint Portal. The suite provides over 18 web parts that run with all versions of Documentum (4.x, 5.x, 6.x) and can combine multiple repositories into a single integrated view of your content. The DocWay Suite is not only a complete end user interface but is also a developer framework that can be extended and enhanced to meet any custom business needs.

DocWay Archive Services for SharePoint (DAS)

Automatically or manually move your documents from SharePoint into Documentum. Content and metadata are automatically moved, as well as, your folder structure providing deep import capability. DAS provides an easy to use interface and the ability for your developers to customize and extend. DAS includes SharePoint Workflow Activities that can be used within your own SharePoint workflows to further automate the migration process.

DocWay eResults

Easily integrate your Documentum content into SharePoint's search technologies: MOSS 2007 and Microsoft Search Server 2008. DocWay eResults allows users to search all of your SharePoint and Documentum content while adhering to all security rules in each system.

"We continue to provide leadership in the integration space between Documentum and SharePoint. We currently are 3 to 5 years ahead of the closest competitor," says Wingspan principal Troy Deck. "Our clients and partners are creating exciting solutions with our DocWay product like Pharmaceutical Clinical Portals, Documentum DCM integration, and the industry leading CSC FirstDoc SPX. Our customers are not turning off Documentum but leveraging their investment through a robust SharePoint interface."
